Dear Dylan,

Not a common problem for me these days. 😊 Sorry to fight - amusing in an odd way - that we are arguing about spending time together. I admit I love spending time together and I confess that (perhaps irrationally) I resent it when you choose to spend time alone or with others in lieu of spending time with me - particularly when I think you are doing it because you don't like the circumstances which are often being attractive to me, i.e. big crowd, new folks, etc. That said I dislike arguing with you more so - in some of let us leave it at we agree to disagree - we are both hard headed I suppose that is how we endure

is. ☺ Above, I love
